JOHNSON CHAPEL, AMHERST COLLEGE,
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS

Johnson Chapel might well be called the "heart of Amherst College". Its principal donor was Adam Johnson, a one-legged carpenter of Pelham. Completed in 1827, it originally housed the chapel, museum, laboratory, recitation rooms, and library. Over the years the interior has been altered, but the exterior design remains largely unchanged. The building now contains the offices of the President, Deans, and Registrar.

NATURAL COLOR by Mike Roberts BERKELEY CALIF.

Published by Bromley & Company, Inc., Boston 15, Mass.

MA1076

We stayed on the w lawn of chapel
left of Wells very lovely Wells very
Yours
Dolly
+ Heather

Peggy Dorsey + Nicholas
Smyth
105 Haddonfield Place
Dewitt 14
N.Y.